Senate sends China trade measure to Clinton

Bill means permanent, normal business access The Washington Post

WASHINGTON – The Senate voted by a huge margin Tuesday to normalize trade relations with China, capping one of the bigges legislative battles of the year and heightening the prospect of a historic economic opening by the world's most populous country. Florida man on vigilante mission hunts down, shoots wrong man TAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—A man whose young son told him someone in a red car tried to lure him away from a bus stop spent two days hunting for the vehicle before killing.his neighbor.—a father of four and the wrong man, authorities said Tuesday.

Kenneth Stephenson, 31, died from five gunshet wounds early Saturday after he drove home from work in his red Chevrolet Beretta.

Held without bail Tuesday was James Price, 46, who told police he spent two days hunting for a red car, intending to kill the driver. He has been charged with first-degree murder. Stephenson had just gotten off work at Ryder Truck Rental wheee he was a tire technician when he was gunned down a half block from his driveway — midway between his house and Price's house. The two men were acquaintances.

"Nothing was said. He just shot him," Stephenson's widow, Mistry, said Tuesday, standing alongside a simple wooden cross on the roadside. Printed on it were the words. "God Bless. You." Thenames. of. Stephenson's wife and children were listed on the side. Price "freely and voluntarily admitted taking his Ruger 357 handgun from his truck toolbox and going in search of the person who allegedly tried to pick up his son," according to an

Gore fund-raiser reaps big bucks

LOS ANGELES (AP) – What can $10,000 buy? Dinner catered by trendy chef Wolfgang Puck and a night with Hollywood stars.

About 300 people joined Democratic presidential candidate Al Gore for a $4.2 million fund-raiser Monday night at the mansion of supermarket mogul [Ron Burkle, whose estate has its own carousel, manicured gardens, ponds, pools and a dog house large enough for a person to live in.

It is the latest example of Republican governors taking more control of the presidential campaigns in their states, partly due to frustration with the Bush

For whatever reason, the governors are now out in force against Democrat Al Gore. John Engler of Michigan, Jim Gilmore of Virginia and Mike Huclabee of Arkansas appeared on weekend news shows on Bestis odhalf. Engler and Bob Talt of Ohio had news conferences Monday to Canadian study.

The study shows that women mammograms can protect themselves equally well from breast cancer death by getting thorough annual physical breast examinations, said Dr. Cornella J. Baines of the University of Toronto.

Baines is co-author of a study appearing today in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute.

Some breast cancer experts questioned the results of the Canadian study. They note that out of seven similar studies in Europe and North America, the Toronto study is the only one to not show a clear survival advantage for mammography.

And the American Cancer Society is continuing to recommend that women over the age of 40 get annual mammography examinations, a position endorsed by the American Medical Association.

With Idaho Lt. Gov. Butch Otter a virtual shoo-in for Congress, attention is starting to facus on who might replace him in the Statehouse. Aming the cardidates is Rep. Celia. Gould, R. Buhl. She has our support, for reasons outlined below. But first, it's time for some political speculation.

After 14 years as lieutenant governor, Otter's career in Idaho politics is heating up. Facing only token opposition, he's a sure bet to win the 1st District congressional seat cur-

Presidential debates are here to stay that negotiators for Vice President Al Gore outmaneu vered representatives of Texas Gov. George W. Bush in the "debate over debates" is proba-bly correct. But it misses an important point: The real winner was the Commission-on-Presidential Debates Until this year, whichever candidate had the lead in the polls or the advantage of incumbency, or just the most hard-nosed negotiators, strongarmed the commission and the opposing candidate into bending the schedule to his own advantage.

In 1996, for example, President Clinton's team simply announced he would not be available for the first debate because he had to work on his speech to the United Nations. In 1992, President Bush's team had used his incumbency to pull the same kind of stunt on Clinton.
In his informative new book, "Presidential Debates: Forty Years of High-Risk TV," Northeastern University journalism professor Alan Schroeder argues that the sponsor of the debates almost inevitably is elhowed to the sidelines by the candidates' teams. "Because the issues in question —

That history doubtless encouraged the Bush campaign to think it could muscle the commission out of the way by declaring that the governor would accept only one of its three proposed events. Instead, Bush challenged Gore

NBC's"Meet the Press" and another joint appearance on CNN's Larry King show, reminding the Democratic nominee that he had boasted he would debate Bush "anytime, anywhere."

But when Gore demurred, a funny thing happened. Editorial pages around the country, cartoonists and commentators said it was Bush who was trying to duck the challenge. A real debate, they said, meant 90 minutes on all broadcast channels under the sponsorship of the duck the challenge. A real debate, they said, meant 90 minutes on all broadcast channels under the sponsorship of the Commission on Presidential Debates. And so the commission emerges with enhanced status as the owner of the franchise for what have become the make-or-break events in the contest for the leadership of the world's only superpower.

This is, in most important ways, a boon to the public, for the commission has exercised its power responsibly. It has taken the debates out of the TV studios, where too much of our politics is centered, and placed them on college campuses in different parts of the coun-try, bringing in a healthy element of try, bringing in a healthy element public involvement, especially by ng people

The commission has found a superb and notably evenhanded debate moderator in BBS. Jim Lehrer. It has discarded the press panels, which were a cruch to the candidates and, too often, an embarrassment to our business. In addition, it has weathered every legal challenge thrown at its operations and financing. It has evolved a defensible and objective standard for deciding whether any minor-party or independent candidates should be invited to participate. The 15 percent early polls found public support for a

But the commission has stood its ground and the squawks seem to be commission now looks so secure it is time to think about its future. By its charter, the co-chairmen of the commission are drawn from the two major parties. Paul G. Kirk, a forther chairman of

He is charming and engaging, nows how to connect with smalle roups of people and is more nowledgeable about issues than knowledgeable about issues than his battered media image suggests. He talked in some detail with reporters about electricity deregulation and other matters, yet he has often been portnyed as a drooling knownothing. That's not to say that he doesn't have his odd mannerisms. Bush sounds early like his Old Man as he speaks in choppy sentences, frequently puis the emphasis on the wrong syllables in longer words (digPAAAARITY), and misspronounces the occasional word or two.

He's pretty funny, too, as he adeptly handled questions from adepty sandled questions from the assembled teen-agers, who – for God knows what reason – kept asking him about sex education, sex on the Internet, same-sex marriages, whether he is against sex. I evaluate candidates based on this time-tested standard. Does he emunciate ideals that promote freedom?

Moore was taken to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center in Twin Falls immediately after the accident, and was later transferred to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise.

Jerome commissioner might face DUI trial

JEROME - There was no arraignment and no plea entered as of Tuesday in a driving under the influence case involving Jerome County Commissioner John Toolson, Gacording to court documents.

A pretrial conference is scheduled Sept. 29.

A pretrial conference is scheduled Sept. 29.
Toolson was arrested late Sept. 7 on charges of driving under the influence and resisting or obstructing officers, court documents say.
Toolson was belligerent-and-used-extreme profanity against Jerome County sheriff's deputies after being pulled over just before 9 p.m., according to a Jerome County Sheriff's Office arrest report.
Toolson's attorney, former Jerome County prosecutor John Lothspeich, said he and Toolson had opted out of an arraignment originally set for Monday and had not yet entered a plea.

may be decided based on local public interest. Many held signs opposing the transfer and new large datries in general.

"This is not in the local public interest," said Buhl activist Bill Chisholm, who had filed a formal protest to the transfer for the dairy proposal that was rejected by the county last year. The Idaho Department of Water Resources, at the direction of the 5th District Court, convened a rehearing Tuesday in Twin, Falls to gather additional evidence and restimony in the water right transfer application that Water Resources also had denied earlier.

Farmers and ranchers Mike and Mark Henslee of Salmon Falls Land and Livestock had applied for the transfer of about 580 gallons per minute of groundwater for a proposed 5,000-cow darry on the bluff above the Snake River In Twin Falls County between Buhl and Hagerman.

Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commissioners elected the dairy proposal.

Water Resources denied the water right transfer application, in part because of the county is rejection. In considering such an application, the department is required to consider whether the transfer would: injure other water rights; expand an existing right; adhers to principles of water conservation; and be in the local public interest.

The Henslees refiled an application for a 2.100-cow dairy. The smaller number of animals meant the proposal would require only administrative approval – it would not require review by the planning and zoning commission or a public hearing.

ing the application met all the requirements of the county's livestock ordinance, Twin Falls County planning administrator-Bill Crafton said. He approved the application, contingent on business points among the a charter bus to a destination of 120 miles or more.

Parents said the cost of using a charter would not be much more than using yellow buses. Restrooms on board is another plus.

Transportation Director Grant Arkinson said the yellow buses cost the district $1.55 per mile, while the charter care cost six of $1.78, depending on size.

Charter buses carry 39 or 47 passengers compared with 71 for the yellow buses.

The district does not get state reimbursement for athletic trips, so the cost is the district's responsibility.

Also Monday, parents said using a van to transport small groups would be cost-effective and would make sense to use. Hill said the district is still under an edict from an attorney for the Idaho school boards, who says the vans are not recommended.

says the vans are not recom-mended.
Rep. Celia Gould, R.Buhl, said the boards have changed-the poli-cy, and other schools are using vans. Hill said he had not been informed of any change.
The yellow school bus is the safest mode of transportation, and Hill said that was the fore-most issue. Atkinson said a new bus, built like a yellow bus but with the comforts of a charter, would cost $120,000.
The board agreed to discuss the policy concerning the use of charters.

"There are many school dis-ricts and many miseums that would love to have this opportu-nity," said Streve Olsen, assistant director of the Museum of Church History and Art in Salt Lake City, "This is an extraordi-nary opportunity to integrate art into the programs of the district. A similar situation – involving art owned by a school district, that was short of funds – occurred in the early 1980s in small museum to house and show the art.

Today, the museum is a show case for Utah artists. He said the art owned by the museum is worth about $3 million, and the museum has housed other privately-owned art collections worth as much as $15 million. In addition, the growing reputation of the Springville collection has drawn artists from other states, including Idaho. The pieces of Idaho art "should be with you," he told the board.
The Utah collection brings 30,000 to 40,000 tourists to Springville each year, he said. In addition, several corporations have been impressed with the culture the collection brings to Springville, and have decided to locate there, he said.
"Look at a solution that allows the community to come together and rise to a new level," he said. "Ye've turned it into a bonus for the community rather than a hurden."

The board said such an art project could be an economic

In Springville, the collection

But planning and rouning-commissioner Jack Thornborrow said the earlier, larger proposal was rejected not so much because of its size, but because of its proximity to the outdoor recreation overlay zone along the river, to the Hagerman Fossil Beds National Monument and because of overwhelming public opposition.

Tim Schneider, representing the Henslee, noted that the Henslee dairy would be in the agricultural range preservation Allowing the agricultural range preservation zone to abut-the recreation zone - which allows housing developments -without any kind of buffer zone was a mistake in crafting the livestock ordinance, said Thornborrow who helped write that ordinance.

Thornborrow who helped write that ordinance.

Mike Henslee said he and his brother modified their proposal in response to public concerns. They reduced the size and are planning to use extensive odor control systems. They changed plans for the irrigation sprinklers closest to the resorts along the river so they would not spray waste water from the dairy. The state Department of Agriculture has approved the operation design, he said. And to control odors, waste water would be -run through a separator to remove organic solids, then brough an aeration dick, a clarthrough an aeration ditch, a clar-ifier basin and into storage

Henslee offered his guarantee that the system would produce no offensive odors. He could cite no other dairy where a similar system already is in operation. But two other dairies are installing such systems, he said. The brothers also plan to build berms to control drainage in the guilles that drain their fields. Henslee said the public turnout did not bother him.

"That's just Chisholm propaganda," Henslee said. "He geverybody fired up." Some of those people, called as witnesses, expressed concorns.

Wes Nash owns property along the Snake River to the north of the proposed dairy. He is developing a subdivision with 29 home sites, and he already has lost one sale because of the potential for the dairy to go in, he said. He anticipates a substantial potential loss of value of his property.

The county approved the sibdivision before the dairy was approved, he said.

"Had I known that, I would not have spent the money to buy and develop that property," Nash said. Henslee's plan to build berns in the gullies was more causefor concern than relief for Rick Rutkowski, licensed real estate agent, who owns one of the lots in-Nash's-subdivision.

The gullies would carry runoff from the Henslee farm past the homes, home sites and resorts to the Snake River. But the need for berms raised his concern. "Why would one have to do it if the site was a good site," he asked.

Others are concerned that the new dairy well would affect local domestic-wells-below-the-dairy-Jeff Hammack, who lives three or four miles southeast of the Henslees' fields, said he already was having trouble with his domestic water supply. He also questioned the validate of the water right the Henslees want to transfer. It would come from land they bought in 1996. They would dry p 76 acres and transfer the irrication water from those acres. But information Hammack has found seems to show the area has not been irrigated from 1994, through 1999, he said. Hammack said information from Water Resource shows the area is not the comment Conservation from Water than the government Conservation in the government Conservation.

Cooking up a storm: These seniors love to keep busy, are just not the retiring kinds

By Barbara Hansen Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES – Mae Laborde has her fingers in so many pies that it's a challenge to keep up with her. One day she is speaking to a civic organization; another, day she's at a board meeting. For fun, she reads tea leaves. And this summer she is growing tomes that she'll sell to Michael's restaurant in Santa Monica on the west side of Los Angeles.

A photo in the living room of her Santa Monica home shows Laborde disco-dancing. The striking oil palnting of flowers behind-the couch is her work. And the savory aroma coming from the kitchen is one of her culinary specialities, a tamale loaf. On top of a busy schedule, Laborde does all her own cooking and grocery shopping.

Give your waterlogged lawn some help

By Charles Fenyvesi The Washington Pos

WASHINGTON - If any part of your lawn - or another section of the garden - stays under water or feels soggy for hours following-a-heavy-duty rainstorm, you need or spike the soil to let the water drain.

Waterlogged soil can be as dangerous to plants as soil that is bone-dry. Roots need air and can drown in wet ground. Trampling on heavy, clay-dominated soil here shortly after the rain stops would only make it even more packed.

Make a mental note of the wettest spots, and make no move until the surface of the soil is no longer soggy but still feels a little moist. Then sink the sturdy tines of your spading fork into the soil every four or five incluses and move the fork back and forth a little to enlarge the holes.

Moss indicates poor drainage and soil compaction. The moss needs to be removed and the soil aerated and improved before reseeding the spots. An even-better tool for the purpose is the hollow-tined aerator, raised by some lawn enthusiasts who aerate their favorite domain every two to three years regardless of the moisture level, especially those parts that receive heavy traffic.

Drive the tool into the soil variety was considered to the contract of the con heavy traffic.

Drive the tool into the soil vertically and then pull it out. Shake out the cores extracted by the hollow tines, dump them in a bucket and add them to the com-bucket and add them to the compost pile.

Latter, spread a top-dressing-to-keep the upper levels of the lawn open and light. You can use a shovel to pile and spread the mix or, on bigger areas, a garden rake. You can buy the amendment already mixed or blend it yourself: one part compost, five parts sharp or medium sand and two parts topsoil.

Such a loose, rich and particulate top-dressing will slowly find-its-way-into-drainage-channels-reaged by the fork or aerator and seep into the rest of the soil, making its texture more prorous and friable. The best time to top-dress is right after mowing and not too far into October. Fall is the prime season for root growth, and friable. A. Actually, putting an air-conditioning vent near the refrigerator is amart idea from an energy standpoint. Go over to your refrigerator and put your hand near its motor, and you'll realize that these appliances give off a fair amount of heat.

Appliances such as refrigerators are often tightly wedged into kitchen cabinets and spaces where the hot air, gets trapped, starting in the kitchen. The unit then has to work harder to overcome this heat, increasing energy usage.

Dorothea Wilfong of Lutherville, Md, wrote, "You might want to cut this recipe in half; it makes a million how ties. This is a two-man job, one to roll and one to fry. Cookies are rich they melt in your mouth."

Pollsh Bow Tles

12 egg yolks 2 tablespoons sugar 1/4 teaspoon salt 1 pint whipping cream 3 cups sifted flour o cups sured flour Vegetable oil for frying Powdered sugar Mix together the yolks, sugar, salt and whipping cream. Add flour to dough until stiff enough to roll. Wrap in plastic wrap or waxed paper and chill at least 2 hours. Roll out a small portion of dough on a lightly floured board or pastry cloth until 1/8-inch thick. Cut into 2-inch-y4-inch strips. Put a 3/4-inch slit longwise in the middle of each length and thread one end through. Fry immediately in vegetable oil over medium heat, about 1 1/2 minutes on a side. Drain on paper towels and sift powdered sugar on top. Makes 30 bow ties. Serve and eat immediately. NOTE: Since you (use) a dozen egg yolks, you may need to make a batch of meringues or some other egg-white-intensive dish to go with these.

Trends and tips to tempt your palate

If you're looking for a quick, nutritious side dish beyond the usual rice, potatoes and pasta, consider couscous. Made from refined wheat or semolina, this versatile grain offers the convenience of pasta with the light and fluffy texture of rice.

Preparing couscous is simple: Just bring the cooking liquid and seasonings to a boil, stir in the couscous and remove from heat. Let stand, cowered, for 5 minutes and fluff when ready to serve.

core of the ready to serve.

Couscous also is an excellent choice for adding low-fat complex carbohydrates to your dict. Some couscous is not a good source of fiber so be sure to look for a whole-grain variety or pair it with a variety of fiber-rich fruits and vegetables. As an alternative to oatmeal or grits, try couscous as a breakfast ceral. Bring to boil over mediumhigh heat 1 1/4 cups of apple juice; 1/4 cup of chopped, dried apricots; 1/4 cup of chopped prunes; and 1/4 teaspoon of ground cinnamon. Remove from the heat and stir in 3/4 cup of couscous and 2 tablespoons of couscous and 2 tablespoons of chopped walnuts. Cover and let couscous and Z tablespons of chopped walnuts. Cover and let stand for 5 minutes. Fluff the couscous and serve topped with a 1/4 cup of nonfat yogurt. Change the boiling liquid and spices, and you can create end-less varieties of couscous dishes. South-of-the-border green chilf South-oi-the-border green chin couscous uses chicken broth as the boiling liquid and is sea-soned with sliced green onion, diced green chili peppers and ground turmeric. For a side dish on the sweeter side that brings out the best in baked chicken or turkey, use apple juice as the boiling liquid for couscous and stir in sliced green onion, dried cherries or raisins, and ground cherries or raisins, and ground cinnamon.

Or, banish boredom from your next picnic by bringing an Asian-inspired, orange-sesame couscous salad to complement the flavors of grilled fish or chicken. In a medium saucepas, combine 1 cup of orange juice, 1/2 cup of red pepper, 1 teapspoon of seame oil and 1/8 teaspoon of salt. Bring just to boll and stir in 2/3 cup of couscous. Cover the pan and remove from heat. Let stank? for 5-minutes. Stir the couscous with a fork to fluff. Stir in 1 orange, peeled and cut into bite-size pieces, and a tablespoons of green onions. 3 tablespoons of green onions.

Minico completes sweep

Spartans go undefeated through first-half of league schedule

RUPERT - The Minico High olleyball team completed a sea-on sweep-of-rival-Burley

Tuesday.
But the Spartans' most impor-tant cleaning might very well lie and cleaning might very mean-ahead.

After sprinting undefeated through the first half of its league schedule, Minico will begin its quest for a conference sweep starting Thursday when Highland pays a visit to Rupert In, winning their first three con-ference matches, Minico beat Highland, Pocatello and Twin Falls all on the road, Josing just two games in the process.

This time around, those three teams will have to beat the Spartans at home.

"(Home court advantage) will be big for us," said Minico coach. Kelly Fosseeco, whose team rallied from a second game loss to beat Burley 15-9, 3-15, 15-9, 15-7. Tuesday night at Minico.

After dowling Burley in Game 1, Fosseeco's squad stumbled in Game 2, then fell behind 6-1 early in the third. With the Bobçats threatening to run away with the game, the Spartans, especially 6-foot-2 opposite hitter Lindsay Phillips and 5-9-senior Lisa Patterson, found their stroke.

Pounding Burley down the lines and up the middle, Minico railled to force ties at 7 and 8 then pulled away with five unan swered points to take a 13-8 lead. The Bobcats managed to score once more, but Minico put the game to bed with two pionts off the serve of senior Kay Story. "That's kind of the momentum shift." Fossecco-said. "We-just-came out a little flat that second game and it carried into, for Burley, the third game." The difference late in Game 3 Fossecco said, was her team's improved hitting. "That third game, we started hitting again," she said. "And that definitely helped us." Phillips finished with a matchigh 16-kills and four-blocks."

"She was able to get some kills down that we needed to turn the momentum around," Fossceos said. "But we weren't setting the ball up in that second game like we should have."

Patterson and Story each added eight kills.

Burley coach Hal Strain, whose team was swept by Minico in its season opener Aug. Zo at Burley, also pointed to Phillips hitting as a major momentum shifter.

"Lindsay Phillips, she had some big hits, and they started to go to her," Strain said. "That was big for them."

High-priced Redskins don't panic

1-2 Washington searches for answers

The Associated Press

The Associated Press

ASHBURN, Va. — The Washington Redskins aren't panicking just yet.

The team with the highest payroll in NFL history, touted as a Super Bowl contender, certainly hasn't lived up to the hype in its first three games, including a 27-21 loss to the undermanned Dallas Cowboys at home Monday night.

"It has us scratching ourheads looking for answers," fullback Larry Centers said Tuesday as he left the Redskins practice facility.

Even so, coach Norv Turner said he doesn't plan big changes for the team. He dismissed any ralk of using backup jeff George instead of Brad Johnson, who has thrown costly interceptions in the fourth quarter of the team's two losses.

Olympic golf fits better for the women

The closest golf has come to the Olympics this side of 1904 is Greg Borman and Karrie Webb carry-ling the torch in Australia.

And Tiger Woods using his golf club for a javelin in a television. commercial.

For a sport that has been around more than 500 years – certainly longer than water polo and table tennis—it seems an injustice that the best players in the world channot compete for the gold once every four years.

Hal Sutton, who wrapped himself in the Stars & Suripes during his stellar play in the Ryder Cup.

Hal Sutton, who wrapped himself in the Stars & Stripes during bils stellar play in the Ryder Cup, ried to Imagine what it would be like to stand on a podium as the national anthem played and the lag was raised.

"It would mean a lot," he said. But what would mean nore? A gold medal around his neck or a green jacket over his shoulders?

A medal or a claret jug?
Just about every Olympic sport brings together the absolute best from countries in even the most remote corners of the globe. What happens when golf comes to the "Olympics, but "Tiger Wonds' doesn'?" "It would be like any other com-

The Olympics need golf a lot more than golf needs the Olympics.

Golf already has its four major championships. For pressure-packed qualify, international strife and dispute over commercialism, it has the Ryder Cup. For those—left out, 'it 'has 'the Presidents Cup. For global competition, it has the World Golf Championships.

The schedule is crammed already. The competition is spread across, the Planet, from America to Asia, from Europe to Australia. Not everyone goes everywhere, and most are driven by the almighty dollar. "I don't think it would be a big priority in our game, just because we have four major championships with equal significance every single year," said Woods, who already has said he's not going to Australia for the Match Play Championship in January. "Most of those athletes, that is the pinnacle," he said. "Now, if we had majors that were once every four years, you throw the Olympics in there, it would have quite a bit of significance."

That's not an opinion shared by everyone, least of all Norman, who called it a "crying shame". It wink it's time to take off the bilinders and just see how comberlied thus completed the strong of the strong of will be a huge success, even without Woods.

Last month in Berlin, David Fay of the U.S. Golf Association and Peter Dawson of the Royal & Ancient received approval to recast another Olympic proposal. They are joint secretaries of the World Amateur Golf Council, which the BOC recognizes as the official federation for golf.
"Over the year, people haye joulied at the notion of Olympic golf and said, Why should we do it?" Fay told Golf World magazine. "That frustrates me, I ask, Why shouldn't we do it? I haven't come up with one reason."

Sutton said. "But. I don't know, what the younger players would

The other issue is television.
Unlike most other Olympic sports, it's difficult to present golf in 10 minute packages. And given the size of the area, it's expensive to produce. That's one reason the PGA Tour has been so lukewarm to the idea.

Commissioner Ty Votaw conferred with his board and his play. remainstance Ty Votaw con-ferred with his board and his play-ers, then fired off a letter to Fay offering full support and coopera-tion to add golf to the Olympics. Webb and Meg Mallon are among those who told Votaw they liked he idea of golfing for gold. The only obstacle would be rearranging the schedule, some-thing Votaw has had to tackle just about every year. Besides, it makes more sense for the LPGA to get involved with the Olympics.

U.S. rowing crew expects to revive Olympic tradition

PENRITH, Australia (AP) —
There wasn't much historic significance attached when the U.S. men's eight won a gold medal in 1964 for Its 11th victory in-14-0lympics.
But since then, the '64 crew has become a hallowed bunch. Instead of continuing the United States' dominance in rowing's most exciting sweep event, they were the end of an era.

A new eight is expected to revive the U.S. tradition. Winners of the past three world championships, the group qualified for the Olympic finals by winning its second-hance round Tuesday.

The Americans, who had finished second in their first-day cunlifying heat, beat Romain by the tip of the boat – a miniscule .02 of a second over 2,000 meters.

That 19.32-second performance in winning the 200 gold in Adanta stunned a packed stadium and the track and field world. It also made him the first to win the 200 and 400 at the Olympics.

U.S. kayak king advances to slalom finals

PENRITH, Australia (AP) -When Scott Shipley was trying to break in as a slalom kayak racer, he couldn't put a priority on things like a solid roof over his head.

At times, he had to settle for head.

At times, he had to settle for any roof: a trailer, a tent, his car, even a winter in a tre-shouse.

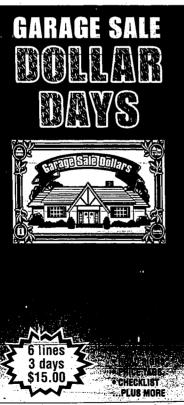

With such dedication it's little wonder that Shipley has become the U.S. kayak king, racking up accomplishments in national and international competition. The only thing missing from his crown is an Olympic medal.

After disappointments in Barcelona and Atlanta, Shipley is back again. While he's focused on winning a medal, he isn't putting too much pressure on himself.

"Everything.is-acceptable," aid Shipley, who by the way is living with teammates in a rented house in Sydney. "Il have some personal goals, but I'm not going, to go home disappointed either way."

MARKET SUMMARY

Techs rally, blue chips falter in partial recovery

NASDAQ NATIONAL MARKET

NEW YORK (AP) - Technology
-stocks rebounded Tuesday on bargain hunting, giving the Nasday
-composite index its biggest gain inmore than two months-But-bluechips struggled through a volatile session, unable to recover from a month-long slide prompted by anxiety about corporate profits
- and rising prices.

Tuesday's performance represented a partial recovery from the market's sharp drop of recent sessions, including Monday, when investor wurries about the safet issues sent the Dow Jones industrials and the Nasdaq down more than 100 points each.

The tech-dominated Nasday rose 139,12 to 3,865564 its largest advance since July 12. But the Dow fell 19.23 to 10,789,29 after trading in an 80-point range throughout the day.

The Standard & Poor's 500-index, which also has a large representation of high-tech stocks, rose 15.39 to 1,459.90.

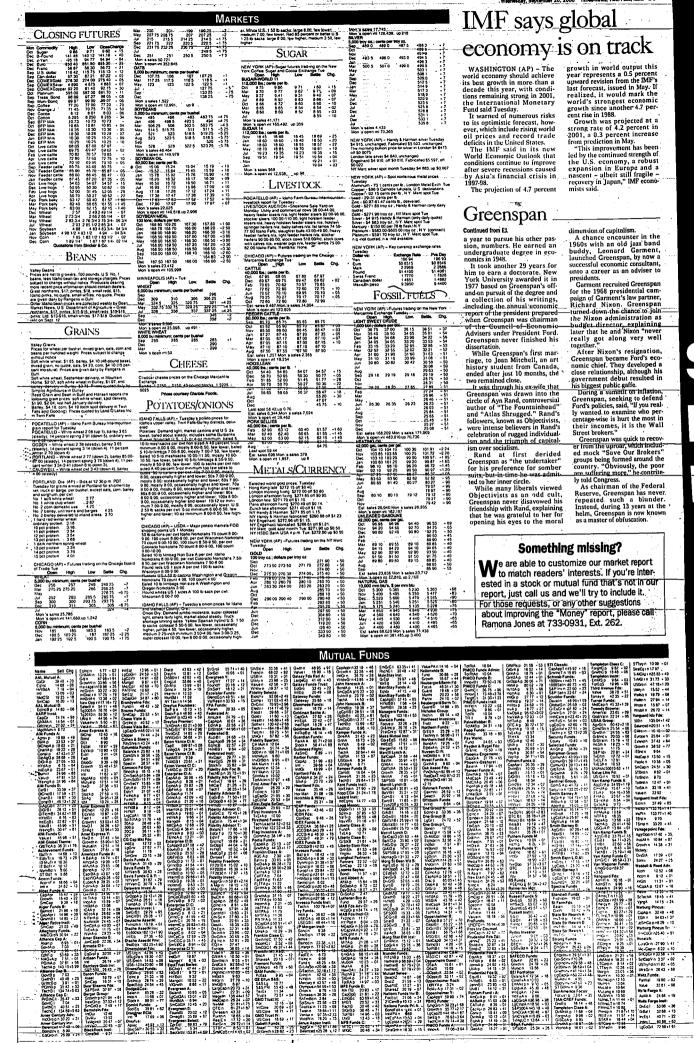

Analysts weren't particularly impressed by Tuesday's improvement, pointing to unresolved questions about oil prices, which have climbed to levels not seen in a decade. Light, sweet crude sold Tuesday for $36.51 on the Work Mercandile Exchange after trading as high as $27 on Munday. The high-stech advance followed what has generally been a down month for stocks, many of which spiked higher in August as it became clear that the Federal Reserve was done raising interest rates for the time being.

Court TV cancels show with criminals' confessions

NEW YORK (AP) - Court TV has scrapped its "Confessions" series after only two weeks, saying it erred in telecasting the much-criticized program with videnapaes of criminals confessing their crimes.

The 'second, and last, "Confessions" episode aired Sunday on the cable network.

"It's not the first time we've and a missale "said Henry

Scam artists take advantage of office workpaper chase It felt so good to talk about

DEAR ABBY: Reading your column is the first order of business in must companies, so please pass this along. There is a scam spoing on that rips off businesses big and small:

A phone call comes in, usually from a woman who says, "Hi, this is Patty. What is the serial number on your office copier?" DO NOT GIVE OUT THIS INFORMATION. The scam is, the next thing you know a pallet load of copy paper is delivered. It's very low-grade stuff and very high-priced. The invoice will show the serial number.

Many of these invoices are paid due to the paperwork sluffer. The callers will say, "We're updating our records." If you ask for their telephone number for a callback, they hang up. A new to give declarer a trick? Or should he attack from an unguarded king or queen?

Test yourself against today's slam. What would you lead against six hearts?
An average player, fearful of giving South a free spade finesse, might choose the passive lead of the club 10. Although the lead of fers a free club finesse, it is not damaging — dummy enjoys no useful discard on South's club acc. The real damage comes from conceding a tempo to declarer.
After South wins the club lead and draws trumps, he can test the diamonds. And when dummy's fourth diamonds. And when dummy's fourth diamond sets up. South enjoys a spade discard to score the slam.
Experienced players almost all and a spade to some the slam.

Experienced players almost always attack against, small slams, in a suit, If their opponents are reasonably, competent bilders, their assets-rate tor provide atleast 11 winners. Therefore, the defenders goal should be to develop a second trick, ready to cash, when declarer concedes he expected loser. With today's West cards, the best chance to develop as second winner is to attack in spades. The tactics pay off handsomely, South's best chance is to win dummy's spade ace and fracese in diamonds, hoping for West to have Q-J-x. Unfortunately for South, when he loses a diamond linesse, the defenders add a spade trick for one down.
